

CONVERSATIONS IN DIGITAL ACCESSIBILITIES

DESCRIBING VISUAL RESOURCES FOR DIGITAL ACCESSIBILITY

A hands-on workshop on digital accessibility basics for higher education contexts, with a focus on describing visual resources. Participants will have the opportunity to try their hand at describing images to gain an understanding of how subject matter expertise and accessibility knowledge inform this practice that makes digital content more accessible, discoverable, and useful.

Monday, February 11, 2019

9:00am - 11:00 am

Woodruff Library

Room 312

STEPHANIE S. ROSEN

Stephanie S. Rosen is a librarian scholar who brings insights from disability studies—and its intersections with feminist, queer, and critical race studies—into library administration and digital scholarship. She is Associate Librarian and Accessibility Specialist at the University of Michigan Library and holds a PhD in English from University of Texas at Austin.

RSVP to lisa.m.flowers@emory.edu

This workshop is co-sponsored by the Digital Publishing in the Humanities Initiative, Disabilities Studies Initiative, and Emory Center for Digital Scholarship.