By request, we copy into our paper an "Address and Constitution," said to have been agreed on by an assembly of students from Yale College, convened in the Council Chamber at New-Haven, on the memorable day that gave birth to the famous address signed "William Judd, Chairman."

This ingenious and witty burlesque has excited such indignation, that the young gentlemen, its authors and abettors, have been denounced as candidates for Newgate.—Candid reason, however, forcibly urges an arrest of judgment.—The case, in brief, was this.—P—E—, a pensioner of the general government, and who earns his pension partly, if not chiefly, by his unwearied exertions to destroy the order of things here, having founded the horn of sedition, his troops rallied and flocked to his standard and marshalled themselves in hostile array against the constituted authorities. Though the people knew them not as their representatives and they had run before they were sent, these knights of confusion and misrule had the audacity to arrogate the title of delegates from 97 towns, thus entering on their work with a most notorious "lie in their right hand." Over-leaping all bounds of moderation and decency and displaying all the insolence of triumphant faction, the self-appointed delegates declared by general vote, that the constitution of this state was a nullity, and consequently that all the officers of the government were usurpers and its laws void.

Now let the public fairly judge which were the proper candidates for Newgate—the factious old men, who, against the will of a vast majority of the people, against the will too of the sober and honest men of their own party, did, in the face of day, attempt to revolutionize the Commonwealth—or the witty young men, who lashed their sedulous attempt with the keen strokes of satire. Let the public also judge whether a government is not remarkable for its lenity, where open sedition is combated with no other weapons than those of argument and ridicule.

LIBERTY!—EQUALITY!
AT a Convention of Republicans, styling themselves "The Upper House of Delegates from ninety-seven towns in Connecticut," holden in the Council Chamber at New-Haven, on the 29th day of August, 1804. RESOLVED, that the following Address and Constitution be presented to the SOVEREIGN PEOPLE.

FELLOW CITIZENS,
THE Circular Letters which have been presented to you in our various news-prints have warned you of the object of the present Convention. To establish liberty upon an immovable basis, to preserve true equality, to protect the rights of man, are objects which should command the attention, and interest the feelings of every friend to his country. Viewing the present state of our government, the destruction of our rights and dissemination of principles which lead to the subversion of all worldly enjoyment; we are inspired with a patriotic zeal to revolutionize the present state of things, and introduce the happy period, when the true principles of Republicanism shall spread their benign influence through the universe. We now behold the men of the present generation enlightened and virtuous; we behold them labouring in the noble cause of freedom, and by the administration of their national government, breaking the iron rod of oppression, and extending the sceptre of liberty to thousands;—while we the inhabitants of Connecticut remain silent and unconcerned. As we love liberty we mourn that we have not joined in the common cause. Now then we rouse; we break through every barrier; and though superstition, though religion and priest-craft oppose us, triumphing over their feeble efforts, we humbly propose those measures which may contribute to the accomplishment of our grand design. Our first step is to lay before you a CONSTITUTION.

—In doing this we feel incompetent to the task, but are willing to encounter every danger to aid the cause of LIBERTY, EQUALITY, AND THE SACRED RIGHTS OF MAN.

REPUBLICANS,
We have here assembled to promote our own interest.—Conscious that all mankind were originally upon a perfect equality in rank, rights, and privileges; and that all distinctions which now subsist between the man and man, have arisen solely from the Monarchical, Aristocratical, Oligarchical spirit which has so long bound in galling chains the human race; so long confined them in the dungeon of ignorance; so long deprived them of the cheering light of truth; so long caused them to bow beneath the iron yoke of despotism, and so long wielded the "leaden sceptre" of priestcraft and superstition.—Sensible that the form of government which now exists in Connecticut is incompatible with True Republicanism; knowing that in the present state of things, the unalienable attributes of man have been almost entirely violated;

that the barrier which opposed this violation has been broken down; and that a flood of unjust principles has overwhelmed us; that without our zealous efforts the foundation of Republicanism will totter; and conscious that we, the ardent patrons of Liberty, Equality, and the Rights of Man, have been seeking office and finding none; we entertain no doubt but the measures we here propose to you for the security of your natural rights, will receive your cordial concurrence.

Our main object, in the formation of this invaluable instrument, is Republican Confidence, and Republican Simplicity.
We deem it sacred that Constitutions are but ink and paper.—They can be easily defaced; and we therefore present you a Constitution composed partially of Resolutions, that alterations may be daily made as your sound judgment shall dictate.

We cannot fail of being accurate in our reasonings, for WE ARE REPUBLIC-CANS. Should any article of our Instrument be called in question, let the vile wretch who dare impeach its virtue, read Republicanism, Genuine Republicanism, ren-damped on every page.—To support each article, we tell you—IT IS REPUBLIC-CANISM!

You will be told by puritanic demagogues that we have a Constitution. No, Republicans! We have no Constitution.
We have, it is true, the shadow, but not the substance!—The Charter, granted in the year 1662, by Charles II. is worm-eaten!—You are imprudent to rest upon a foundation so unstable!

You will be told that we have been, and are still happy. If so, bless Fortune, but impute it not to our prudence. "If a vessel should happen to perform a good & safe voyage without rudder and compass, the mariners might be complimented on their success, but the owner would never send her to sea again in such a condition!"

If we have once ventured upon the ocean without a chart or a pilot and met with no storms; if the billows have fortunately waited us to port—believe us!—trust not again the treacherous sea! Storms may and will rise. Let us not flatter ourselves that the sky will always be serene or the tempests cease to roar. Refer to your compass; remember to be safe; then if darkness surround us, if lightning flash, if thunders roll, we have a port of safety.

REPUBLICANS!—This end justifies the means; our end is private aggrandizement, our means are therefore just.

Here is our Constitution. We present it to you as the first-born of our political experience. Receive and cherish it as the emblem of True Republicanism, and it will make you happy!—You will no more bend under the influence of tyrants, but each be his own judge, his own law, his own law-giver. This, Republicans, is the guardian of your rights, the palladium of your safety!

THE CONSTITUTION.
ARTICLE I.

Sec. 1. The Government shall consist of three distinct branches, the Executive, Legislative and Judiciary.

Sec. 2. The Executive power shall be vested in three Consuls to be chosen for life by the President of the United States; provided he be Republican, if not by the Sovereign People.

Sec. 3. The First Consul shall appoint all the inferior officers in the Republic.

Sec. 4. The Second Consul shall preside in the Council of Elders.

Sec. 5. The Third Consul shall preside in the Council of Delegates.

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 1. The Legislative power shall be vested in a Council of Elders, and a Council of Delegates from ninety-seven towns.

Sec. 2. The Council of Elders shall be chosen annually by the First Consul, and shall consist of six members.

Sec. 3. The Council of Delegates shall first be chosen by the First Consul, after that period they shall elect their own body.

ARTICLE III.

Sec. The Judiciary shall be appointed by the Sovereign People, and shall consist of as many superior and inferior Courts as they shall think proper, and removable at their pleasure.

ARTICLE IV.

Sec. 1. The First Consul, if Republican, shall receive for his services annually 25,000 dollars; if not Republican 1,000 dollars.

Sec. 2. The Second Consul, if Republican, shall receive 10,000 dollars; if not Republican 4,000 dollars.

Sec. 3. Each member of the Council of Elders shall receive annually 1,000 dollars.

Sec. 4. The members of the Council of Delegates for their services, both before and after the formation of this Constitution, shall determine their own salaries

Sec. 6. Taxation is tyranny; the expenses of Government, therefore, shall be defrayed by a grand Republican gaming-table to be established at New-Haven; provided nevertheless, if the profits thereof are insufficient for the support of the officers of Government, they shall have the right of levying taxes, so that the officers may have their shares of the loaves and fishes.

ARTICLE V.

Sec. 1. The common law of England shall be abolished in all Courts of Justice.

Sec. 2. Capital punishments shall be inflicted for no crime, except opposition against genuine Republicanism.

Sec. 3. As religion is prejudicial to the rights of man, no minister of the gospel shall be entitled to the protection of law.

Sec. 4. The Sabbath shall be abolished, and that day which has so long been devoted to superstition, shall be dedicated to conviviality and social intercourse.

Sec. 5. As all men are born with free and unalienable rights, no marriage contract shall be valid. Freedom is the birth-right of man, consequently promiscuous concubinage is a characteristic of freedom.

Sec. 6. Property shall be equally distributed; for he is a tyrant, who assumes to himself more than any one of his fellow-men.

Sec. 7. Suffrage shall be universal and extended to all beings, rational or irrational excepting beasts of prey.

Sec. 8. As the end justifies the means, if any person shall be found either in principle or action, favouring of Aristocracy, he shall be brought to the guillotine—better than twenty suffer.

Sec. 9. As Duelling originates from Republican principles, he who kills his an agonist in a duel shall be honored with a medal worth 500 dollars, and he who refuses to accept a challenge shall be stigmatized with the punishment of 500 lashes.

Sec. 10. There shall be no standing army; for this purpose no person shall be permitted to have in his possession any fire-arms except pistols.

Sec. 11. If this government shall ever be administered by any but a majority of 5/6ths of true republicans, it shall ipso facto become null and void.

Sec. 12. If any officer of government shall be supposed to act in opposition to these wholesome and salutary laws, he shall be deposed by the Sovereign People.

Sec. 13. All business of the Councils shall be transacted with closed doors, that the people may be more enlightened.

Sec. 14. No law shall be passed without the consent of every citizen of the Republic.

RESOLVES.

1. As there appears to be a combination formed, particularly in some of our literary institutions, tending in its consequences to strike at the root of liberty and good order, all such institutions shall be subverted, their buildings demolished and their members exposed to the populace, glowing with the fervor of liberty.

2. As Virginia has so eminently distinguished herself in the cause of freedom, as she has shewn so respectfully in our political horizon, we will revolve around her, experience the mild and benignant influence of her rays, and bask in the splendid blaze of universal liberty.

3. Immediately upon the adoption of the Constitution, a treaty of alliance offensive and defensive, shall be entered into with the Emperor of the Gauls, Protector of the Batavian and American Republics.

4. Be it finally resolved, that a monument be erected from the products of the grand Republican gaming-table, to the honor of Thomas Paine and Robespierre.

5. Again be it finally resolved, that Ridicule is the only test of truth, and that all societies promoting infidelity and true republicanism shall be encouraged by the republic.

BOSTON, October 17.

OF THE LATE STORM.

Since our last, we have heard from Newburyport—At that place, the tempest was experienced with equal severity by the farmer in the fields, as by the merchant in his shipping in that vicinity; tho' not so fatal to human lives in the former.—Fences, stacks of hay, and even buildings were demolished; and what is still more surprising in an autumnal storm; we have been credibly informed, that in a small compass, thirty head of cattle perished, and it was the opinion of our informant that in the town 100 head must have met the same fate.—Several cows died at Mr. Boardman's farm.—Accounts from Sandy-Bay state, that all the fishing smacks, except four, (which went on shore) round the gale, with but little damage.—From Portsmouth, we further learn, the passenger on board sch. Amity, Trefethen, from Philadelphia, lost on the rocks at Rye Beach, was Mr. Schrader—he was swept overboard in the night and lost; he was picked up on Wednesday, brought up to Portsmouth, & interred. The Amity sentry-lyrained, much of her cargo lost, & the rest damaged.—A ship allowed wrecked on Plum Beach, in that vicinity, and four of the hands lost—name and destination unknown.

At Providence, on the 9th, towards night, the wind varying to different points, from N. E. to S. E. increased with great fury, and in the course of the night this town experienced the heaviest gale within the recollection of any of its inhabitants. Several vessels were driven from their moorings to the shore, among which were the ships Patterson and Susan. Several barns and other buildings in town, and its vicinity, were considerably injured; some, we understand, were destroyed.—A number of chimneys were blown down, and many trees, fences, &c. were destroyed.—At Plymouth, brig Commerce, upset at the wharf, and was righted next day; no damage. Brig Eliza, on the Ways drove up high and dry;—without damage.—Schooner Mary Ann, had sailed on Monday for the W. Indies; returned; parted her cables; and is on shore within the harbour. A schooner from Bay Chaleur, with fish, had doubled Cape Cod on Tuesday, bound for Truro; put away for Plymouth; and is on shore near Rocky Nook, within the harbour; belongs to Mr. Loud of Weymouth. Several wood sloops and other small vessels, up high and dry, within the harbour; without much damage. A wreck was seen near the High Pines, after the gale; has since been towed into Plymouth; proves to be the schooner Franklin, of Falmouth; about 100 tons. The body of a seaman has been found on the Outer Beach; two others been found in the wreck. A few houses partially injured; several chimneys blown down. Many poplars, willows, elms, and valuable apple trees twisted, or blown up; but the greatest destruction, under this head, is among the timber trees of the forest, within a range of more than fifteen miles in the vicinity. An alarm of fire! about 9 o'clock in the evening, heightened the terrors of the scene. The oldest persons in this place have no recollection of a storm attended by similar effects, within about forty years.—In one part of Thomaston, (Maine) the trees of a wood-lot of about 60 acres were blown down in the late storm.—At New Haven, the storm raged from the 7th to the 10th inst.—The shipping (excepting one) rode out the gale.—At N. Bedford, although the Docks were considerably filled with shipping, none were injured; the adjacent country suffered much.—At Newport, similar damage;—and several small vessels on Prudence, Gould's and Dyer's Islands.

Sch. Robin, Card, of Kittery, wrecked on Plum Beach;—and the whole crew, eight in number, perished;—their names were, John Card, Joshua Monson, Benj. Webster, Sam. Lamphire, Isaac Lewis, Nath. Knight, Eph. Lane, and a Mr. Staples.—On Ipswich Bar, wrecked, sch. Dove, Briard, of Kittery; all on board, seven, perished; viz. Moses Briard, and his son, William; Daniel Jones, John Muiridge, Wm. Hutchins, Edmund Hutchins, and John Gunnison.—Many of the people in the above two vessels have left wives with a number of young children!

A woman was found dead on Saturday last, on Rye-Beach, with an infant child clasped in her arms! She was a passenger on board an eastern vessel which was lost in the storm of the 9th inst.

From Ipswich, Oct. 16, 1804. "The late storm, was severely felt in this place, on Tuesday the 9th inst.—Many barns, fences, and trees are levelled to the ground; many people have lost nearly all their cattle. Two fishing schooners, belonging to Kittery, Maine, were lost on our bar; there were on board the two vessels 15 people, who all perished. On Thursday and Saturday 6 of them were found, and decently interred on Saturday and Sunday. At the interment of those on Sunday, upwards of 500 people were present; every respect was paid the remains of those unfortunate strangers that was possible, by the inhabitants."

Among the most melancholy disasters by the late hurricane, we have heard of, is the loss, on Cape-Perdise, of a Hollowell Packet, Capt. Walton, which sailed from this port on the Monday preceeding the storm.—There were 20 passengers on board, 12 of whom were ladies;—and we learn that all of them perished.—The body of Dr. A. PLETON, of Waterville, his wife and child, have been found.

The valuable ship Protector, of N. York, which sailed from hence, for Lima, on the Monday evening preceeding the storm, went ashore, on Cape-Cod, on Wednesday morning, about 3 o'clock, and bilged soon afterwards.—One man perished.

A letter from Provincetown, says—"On the 10th inst. on the back of Cape-Cod, between Race Point and the Light-House, a young man picked up a number of papers, containing bills of lading, &c. of the cargo of the sch. John, of Salem, Robert Harris, master. There appears to be some pieces of wreck of said sch. on shore, as the stern containing her name, &c."

One of the ships on shore, back of the Cape, is supposed to be that which failed from hence some weeks since, for Baltimore, and was seen afterwards stranded. We are informed that a sloop upset in the Vineyard Sound, on the 9th, and it is supposed every person on board perished.

WALFORD, October 13, 1804.

Extraordinary snow storm.

ON Tuesday last (the 9th instant) about the middle of the forenoon, the weather suddenly changed from a temperate rain, to a storm of snow, attended with thunder and violent wind upon the high lands—the storm continued with some intermissions till Wednesday morning. It is judged that the mean depth of snow which fell was from 15 to 18 inches. Contiguous to the river, it dissolved rapidly, yet repeatedly measured from 4 to 5 inches, and covered the ground for more than 30 hours. On the hills it was blown considerably into drifts, which in places covered the fences and blocked up the roads. The eastern stage could not run, and the mail was conveyed on horseback. Greater damage was done to fruit trees and timber than was ever known to be sustained in one year since the settlement of this part of the country. Their foliage formed a lodgment for the adhesive snow, which broke many branches by its weight, and the wind lending its aid levelled many a trunk with the earth.

To enliven the gloom of the scene, sleighs ran briskly during the continuance of the snow in this village. The untimely element still lies in considerable quantities on the high lands.

WINDSOR, (Ver.) October 16.

On Tuesday last commenced a severe Snow Storm, which continued through the day.—The snow fell from one to four feet on a level, in this and the towns at the north. Great damage has accrued to the orchards and groves in consequence of it.

Proceedings and Debates in the House of REPRESENTATIVES.

Friday Oct. 12.

A Resolve was passed for the protection of Daniel Burkle, during the session of the Assembly.

The Petition of Amelia Holmes of Stratford, (Ver.) praying liberty to sell minor's lands in Woodstock, (Conn.) was read and granted.

A protection was granted to Joseph Burr of Hartford, during the session.

His Excellency's Speech was read, and the House postponed the consideration of it.

The Memorial of Mr. Bromley was read, stating that he was a native of Norwich, (Eng.) and had for some time resided in New-Haven, and had purchased land; but being advised, that being an alien he could not hold real estate here, he prayed the Assembly to grant him that privilege, &c.—His petition was granted, and a bill in form passed thereon.

Mr. Roster moved that some gentlemen be requested to examine what was the unfinished business of last session and report it to the House.—The Speaker requested Mr. De Witt to perform that office.

Mr. Hubbard laid in a Bill for the appointment of Mr. Amos Churchill a Justice of the Peace for the County of Middletown, who was not appointed last May, on account of his not having made his return of State Duties. His Bill was accompanied with a Certificate from Churchill, that he had not signed any writ from May 1803 to May 1804, and had consequently made no return. That paragraph of the Statute which relates to this subject was read; and the bill was withdrawn.

Messrs. Belden, S. Griswold and J. Mix, were appointed a Committee to receive Military returns.

A motion was made for the appointment of a Committee of two Members from each County to count the votes for persons to stand in Nomination for Assistants in May next. N. Terry, Samuel Pitkin, De Witt, Kingsbury, Jewett, Simeon Smith, Stevens, N. Smith, M. Clellan, Randall, Benedict, L. Norton, Chauncey, J. Huntington, Levi Wells, and Gilbert, were appointed.

Mr. De Witt laid on the table the unfinished business of last session—among which were three Bills, each entitled "An act in addition to an act, entitled an act for the direction of Listers in their office and duty," which were severally read; and the subject was referred to a select Committee, consisting of Messrs. E. Terry, Kingsbury, Backus, Judson, Putnam, Morris, Hubbard and Pomeroy, who were to join such Committee as should be appointed by the Council.

A Bill continued from the last session was read the first time, for the erection of Work Houses in each County, under the direction, and regulation of the County Court, &c.

A Bill entitled an "Act in addition to an act entitled an act for the directing and regulating of Civil Actions" was read the first time.

A Bill was read the first time in addition to the existing "Act providing for the collection and payment of Rates or Taxes."

The Petition of William and Josiah Nettleton of Woodbury, praying that their bodies may be free from Arrest on Civil Process, on their delivering into the hands of Assignees for the benefit of their creditors, all their property—was granted.

A Bill to enlarge the powers of Justices of the Peace and for other purposes, was read. Also a Bill in alteration of an "Act for regulating Salaries and Taxes."

The Report of the Committee appointed in October, 1803, to examine the condition of the State House in this City, and what repairs or alterations, if any, were necessary to be made, was taken up and read.

The resignation of Timothy Higgins Major of the 2d Regiment of Cavalry was read and accepted.

Mr. Hubbard laid in another Bill for the appointment of Amos Churchill Justice of the Peace for Middlesex County, which was passed.

The Petition of Dorothy H. Williams of Norwich, praying leave to sell Minor's lands, granted, and a bill in form passed thereon.

The Petition of Andrew Bartholomew and others, praying leave to sell Minor's lands was granted and a Bill passed thereon.

Daniel Wheeler was appointed Major of the 21st Regiment.

The Petition of Sarah Beech praying leave to sell Minor's lands, was granted, and a bill passed thereon.

Mr. Daggett asked leave to lay in a Bill for the purpose of prohibiting the circulation of Bank Bills other than those issuing from the Banks of this State, less than five dollars.

He remarked, That the evils arising from the circulation of small Bills were such, in his opinion, as required Legislative interference. In Massachusetts no Bills are allowed to be issued or passed less than five dollars. The same is the case in the State of Vermont. In the State of New-York, none are issued less than five dollars, except by the Manhattan Company, who, I believe have not issued them smaller than three dollars. It is quite obvious that the circulation of these small Bills being prohibited in the neighboring States, there will be a greater influx of them into this, particularly from Rhode-Island. For this paper we exchange silver, which has lately become an article of more than nominal value.

There are two evils that arise from the circulation of these Bills—It drives the specie away, the scarcity of which is now pretty generally felt; and the evils have rose to such a degree as to become alarming.—They ought to be checked. Every one will perceive that the more Bills we have in circulation, there will be so much the less specie. And the Bills have become so numerous as almost to prevent the circulation of specie—an evil in my mind very great.

Bills do not answer all the purposes.—We cannot decently refuse a small Bill offered us; but we are often troubled to pass them again—people in the country do not like to take them—and travellers experience from being loaded with Bills which have a very limited circulation. Our sister States having prohibited the circulation of them, I believe that policy requires we should do the same.

I should have no objection to extending the prohibition to our own Bank; were not the scarcity of specie such, that the sudden suppression of these Bills, would create much inconvenience.—

Leave was granted to lay in his Bill.

Messrs. Miller, Mix and J. Huntington were appointed an Engrossing Committee.

Mr. Brinsmade moved, as there were no business on the table, that the rule of the House be dispensed with, and the Bill to enlarge the powers of Justices of the Peace, &c. be read.

The Bill passed the second reading without debate. Adjourned.

For the COURANT.

Messrs. HUDSON & GOODWIN.

I AM pleased that you have adopted, and persevere in, a resolution to appropriate a part of your extensively circulating paper to the diffusion of agricultural knowledge. Agriculture was the first and is the most necessary and general occupation of man, as it yields the principal means of subsistence, and the most essential materials of manufacture. Our ancestors found here a continent covered with a thick coat of rich mold, which had been forming probably from the creation, and which for a long period, superfluously the necessity of manure. To this circumstance, may be ascribed an ignorance among our farmers of the nature and uses of several substances which constitute the food of plants, and the still more remarkable negligence in sowing such articles as are well known to be useful in the business of farming, a negligence which to our European farmer is astonishing. But the soil of the Atlantic coast being exhausted or impoverished, men must now turn their attention to the means of restoring to it, those nutritious qualities which are essential to the production of good crops. This must be the work of experiment aided by philosophy. Philosophical agriculturists are very rare; but our State is full of discerning, judicious farmers, whose knowledge, if collected, would form a fund from which others could derive much practical information. I think that in the pursuance of your plan, you will gather up the fragments that nothing may be lost, of the practical knowledge of our farmers. It is the duty of every man to contribute what he has rare or useful on this subject, and the more will be as well received by the public as more liberal donations. I possess not a farm on which to indulge my inclination for experiments; my experience is limited to a small garden; but even this experience may have offered a few useful truths, to spread the knowledge of which is the sole motive of this communication.

It is well known that in many parts of our country, a small bug, called, without any good reason, the Rose Bug, has, for some years, spread destruction among some species of fruits. The history of this insect is to me unknown. I do not recollect the time of their first appearance in destructive numbers; nor do I know to what cause their late multiplication may be justly ascribed. Still less have been able to devise the means of exterminating them or preventing their ravages. With a view however to call forth the knowledge and the inquiries of others, I will state what I have observed concerning their appearance and disappearance.

These insects appeared, in my garden, the last summer, the first week in June, and I am able to affirm with confidence that they appeared suddenly and full grown. I first discovered them upon the wing, and apparently coming from a neighboring garden. I was led, by these facts, to conjecture, that they are hatched and grow to full size in the earth, before they appear. On mentioning this conjecture to a person, he confirmed it by alleging that he had plowed them out of the ground, when nearly of full size.

These insects, after feeding about three weeks, suddenly disappeared. Solicitous to discover their mode of death, and especially the place and manner of depositing their eggs, I carefully inspected the trees where they had fed, and the surface of the earth beneath the branches. I soon found the remains of the bugs on the earth, under the trees. The bodies had not lost their form; but were hollow—and a considerable perforation appeared near the lower extremity, by which probably their eggs were discharged. From these facts, I am led to conclude that the eggs are deposited on or a little within the surface of the earth. Possibly they may be lodged among the loose bark of the tree, or attached to the leaves. If the eggs are deposited on the earth, they are proof against the effects of frost, but may be subject to perishing, if covered deep in the ground. Their numbers in my garden, the last summer, were far less than in the preceding summer, which diminution may possibly be owing to the digging of the ground late in November last—a practice which I believe of great use in the destruction of insects. This practice may kill the eggs of some insects by exposing them to frost and rain; others, by burying them too deep, in short, by disturbing the order and disposition of the eggs made by the insects themselves or breaking their covering.—I would only further remark that the rose bugs appear to fall and perish under the trees where they last feed—I found no carcasses, except under such trees; and if digging the earth and turning it over, will destroy the eggs, the work will be much abridged by confining it to those places.—But a further knowledge of the history and habits of this animal, is much to be desired; and I cannot but hope that some of your subscribers will furnish it.

With regard to insects in general, I would remark that many of them lodge their eggs, well secured in a cover of firm web, on the branches of trees; under the loose bark, and within cracks. Some are said to attach them to leaves, which fall and form a warm covering for them. For the destruction of such as are fastened on the bark, it may be very useful to scrape off the loose bark in autumn or winter, which falling upon the earth would be exposed to water and snow, which might cause them to perish. This might be effected, with a hoe, fastened to a long handle—and if the edge is curving, so much the better. This scraping of the trees would be useful to the trees also, by stripping off the dead bark, which impedes their growth and fruitfulness. Nothing is better for a fruit tree than to keep the bark smooth, clean and healthy.

* The rose has nothing to do with the generation of this insect, nor does it often suffer by their ravages. When they appear in great numbers, they attack the rose; but whole seasons have passed away, without my discovering a single bug on the rose, when apples, cherries and other fruits have suffered much by their ravages.

Insects seek a hybernacle, or winter-lodge, under the rails of fences, in post-holes, under windows—in short wherever they are secure from water. I make it a practice to scrape off these lodges in time to expose them to bad weather, and destroy as many as possible. By this means, and by destroying every nest of caterpillars, as soon as it is formed, I have evidently reduced the number of noxious insects in my garden. I attack them in every fixed stage of their being—in the egg inclosed in the hybernacle—in the caterpillar state or larva—and in the chrysalis or aurelia state—for when the insect has arrived to his perfect form, he takes wing and escapes.

NEW LANDS,

FOR SALE, on and near the great Suffolknah Turnpike, at, and in the neighborhood of Meridith, in the county of Delaware, in the State of New-York, about 150 miles westward of the city of Hartford, and only 60 to 70 west Castkill and Hudson on the North River.

The subscriber has himself cleared up, and put under improvement one large Farm, in the center of these lands; and he is fully convinced, from what he has seen and experienced, that the surrounding Farms which he has to dispose of, to the full number of one hundred and fifty, will make some of the first grazing Farms in the United States, and, sometimes, be good for grain; not has he a doubt but what the best judges, on examining the lands, will agree with him in opinion.

To that end, to actual inspection, he wishes to submit them, and he respectfully invites such of his Fellow-Citizens as are desirous of getting them new farms to repair to Meridith and take a look. A good Turnpike, commanding a vast travel, leads thro' the center of the lands. The distance, compared with that of most of the new lands settling, is but a mere trifle. A few hours travel, comparatively speaking, may carry people from any part of Connecticut to the spot.

The surrounding country abounds with inhabitants. The deprivations and difficulties, attendant on entirely new settlements, are no longer felt! The necessities of life are become abundant in the neighborhood itself; and it is believed, Families worth say 500 dollars or upwards, in the old towns, may remove on to these Farms, and, in a very few years, double and even treble their estate.

The Gentlemen associated with the Subscriber, in regard to these lands, are among the most respectable characters in this country; and by them the title will be warranted against all lawful claims and demands whatsoever.

Applications to be made, on the premises, to the subscriber, or to such person as may be authorized to act in his behalf.

SAMUEL ANDREW LAW.

Cheshire, (Conn.) April 20th. 8w.8w.0.0. N. B. Meridith at present affords an excellent opening for a good Blacksmith and other Mechanics!

FOR SALE,

THAT large and convenient dwelling house, and the land adjoining, situated in the city of Hartford, fronting southerly on the State House square, having a good well of water, a large yard and excellent garden, and is one of the pleasantest situations in this city, being a good stand for almost any kind of business; having sufficient front to build a large store adjoining the dwelling house. A generous credit will be given for the principal part of the purchase, on good security. For further particulars apply to Mrs. MARY CALDWELL, on the premises, or to SEITH BRIGGS of Bolton, who will attend to any communications made to him, by letter or otherwise.

Hartford, July 25th.

SURGEON DENTIST.

THE subscriber, proposing to spend a few weeks in New-Haven, respectfully informs his friends, and the public, that he performs the Dentist business in its various branches; and flatters himself he can give satisfaction to all who see fit to command his service. Artificial teeth may be placed so as to be very useful, and ornamental, without much pain or soreness in the operation, or effects: Teeth extracted with less pain than common. Sensible that the good sense of the public has but too often been imposed upon by pompous advertisements, it is needless to add more than that I reside at Mrs. Parmelee's south side the green, and am the public's humble servant.

J. B. PORTER.

New-Haven, Aug. 25th.

WILLIAM DEXTER,

WISHES to inform his customers, and his friends in particular, that he continues to carry on the COMB MAKING business, near the bridge, where they can be supplied with all kinds of HORN COMBS, of the newest fashion, on the shortest notice, and as cheap as in this State. All orders will be punctually attended to, and all favors acknowledged with gratitude.

N. B. CASH paid for OX or COW HORNS, Cattle's TAILS, and Horse's LONG HAIR, and Hog's BRISTLES: also, Cash, and the highest price given for any quantity of HORN TIPS.
